Course Title

Stepping into Leadership

Course Facilitator

Amy Green
Amy is an experienced Teacher and School Leader who has provided training and support for educators throughout her career. Using first-hand experience and current research, Amy will encourage and support Establishing Teachers in this course as they look to further enhance their current practice, guiding them through a series of modules which will have instant impact on how they plan and teach, challenging them to think and reflect along the way.

Course Description

This course aims to provide Leadership Teachers with the tools and skills needed to assist them from moving from the classroom into a leadership role. The difference between Established and Leadership Teachers is distinguished by a leadership teachers role to lead others rather than work alongside them, although this is still a very important role in leadership. During this course, teachers will learn about leading teachers and teams, how to work with different personality types and how to ensure leading is about working with teachers, not for them. This course is designed for educators ready to take their career to the next level, and who may be interested in or just starting in a leadership role of any capacity.

Course Modules

1. Understanding Others
2. Reaching Out
3. Accountability for Impact
